

ASK COUNTIES TO GET NURSES

RED CROSS READY TO TURN
SOME COUNTIES OVER TO LOCAL COMMUNITIES.

Lansing, March 16.—Supervisors of 14 counties will be asked by the Red Cross to take over their county nursing programs this fall.

Counties without any public health nursing agencies are now in the minority as 46 of the 83 are carrying on definite work, their service varying in size from 1 to 15 nurses. In 12 counties the boards of supervisors have taken over the public health nursing programs, while 4 others are partially supported by taxation. Twelve counties have requested the state department of health to secure public health nurses to start their programs.

In including supervisors to support the work, public health nurses will be able to cite many instances where nurses have helped to prevent disease and save lives.

John Smith, Jr., for instance, one month old, obviously not well, was being fed condensed milk, though the farm's Duroc-Jersey was given 10 or 12 gallons of skim milk twice daily. The county health nurse called on the young mother, explained to her that the baby's diet was at fault and induced her to try breast feeding. Another child, three years old, and several pounds underweight, was put on a whole milk diet. Today both children are well.

Mapleleaf School in another county was attended by 29 pupils from 12 different families. The morning the county nurse visited the school a new pupil, whose parents had just moved into the community, was being admitted. Throat swabs which the nurse took of all the children revealed that the new scholar was a "carrier of virulent diphtheria organisms." He was excluded from school and the possibility of diphtheria developing among the children—with its attendant toll of lives—was thus narrowly averted.

Builders Had

A Fine Record

The Builders Class of the First Presbyterian Sunday School has just closed a very successful basketball season. Meeting such teams as the Mt. Pleasant Indians, the Ithaca Freshmen, the Catholics, the H-Y's, the St. Louis Freshmen, and the Christians, the Builders have only lost two games out of fourteen. The team started its winning streak in December while in training, by defeating several local teams in practice games. Only one time this season has a local team heard the last whistle blow with the big end of the score on the Presbyterians, and only once has an out-of-town team carried away the honors from the Builders. The Mt. Pleasant Indians defeated the Calvinists at Mt. Pleasant in an overtime count.

The outlook for the next season in basketball is bright for the Builders. The teacher hopes to start the season with the team well-equipped and well-trained. The schedule will be filled with high school freshmen teams from neighboring towns.

The following are the season's results for the Builders: Builders 21, Wagner Independents 11; Builders 17, Wagner Independents 7; Builders 17, Baptists 3; Builders 28, Independents (mixed team) 8; Builders 9, Catholics 17; Builders 15, Mt. Pleasant Indians 21; Builders 14, Ithaca Freshmen 9; Builders 16, Baptists 4; Builders 14, College Freshmen 10; Builders 13, St. Louis Freshmen 2; Builders 12, H-Y's 7.

GOOD ADDRESS YESTERDAY
AT C. OF C. MEET

...of decay and laziness is the father of crime.

Show me a community, he said, where everyone works and I'll show you a good town, and coming back to the individual he stated that no one who works by the clock will achieve a big success in the world.

To produce, he said, is to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before, and the man who does this is a philanthropist. All nature produces and pays a dividend, he said, and it follows that mankind is expected to produce and pay dividends. Every honest endeavor is rewarded by products for the benefit of one's fellow-men.

He called attention to the ancient literature, written and placed on the shelves, something of no value until given to the public, when it began producing. He spoke of reading about 50 years ago two pages on electricity, and a closing paragraph in which it was said that it was doubtful if it would ever come into general use, leaving it to his audience to imagine how the workers have been rewarded in their efforts to produce by their study of it.

In literature, in art, in politics, in religion, as well as business one can produce he stated.

Following the address Chairman Cushing read a short financial statement in which it was shown that the indebtedness of the Chamber of Commerce, which was $1,077.58 on March 1, has been cut down to $411 since that time. The chairman also urged that membership dues be paid at once.

"The Mikado" Given By Normal Singers

Friday evening the Department of Music of the Central State Normal School presented "The Mikado" at the Strand Theatre. It is so seldom that one sees this famous comic opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, which made such a hit when it was first presented, played with a full company that the splendid chorus which backed up the leading parts was all the more enjoyed. Under the direction of J. H. Powers, head of the music department at the Normal, the chorus did some very effective work. While it lacked the professional unanimity of attack and polished rhythmic movement, it was a distinctly high grade amateur performance. What the chorus lacked in experience it made up with its youthful vigor and admirable vocal work.

The interpretation of Nanki-Poo, the son of the Mikado disguised as a wandering minstrel, by Thayer Walsh was very good. Mr. Walsh has a fine tenor voice, and he was easily the mainstay of the performance as far as the men were concerned. He was well supported by Bernard Woodruff as Ko-Ko and Warren Thornthwaite as Poo-Bah, both of whom acted their speaking parts cleverly. Miss Geraldine Burkman as Yum Yum made a perfect leading lady. With her natural ability and sweet lyrical soprano voice she captured her audience from the first. Sara Kent as Pitti-Sing and Estella Skoug as Peep-Bo were also very good, and their work deserves great credit. The opera as a whole was greatly enjoyed, and the entire company is to be congratulated on its fine work.

Sanilac Drain Work To Set State Model

Drainage campaign work in Sanilac county, which will serve as a model for other sections of the state, is to be started this spring under the direction of the farm mechanics department at the Michigan Agricultural College.

A series of farmers meetings to line up demonstration plots for the proposed work is being held in the county this week, with results which exceed the expectations of the project's closest backers. More than 1,200 Sanilac farmers have attended the various conferences; 100 of them have registered for farm drainage surveys; and more than a dozen plots upon which demonstration work is to be done by the college this summer have been secured.

"Thousands of acres of Michigan land need drainage," says O. E. Robey, extension drainage specialist at M. A. C. "While much uncultivated land remains to be reclaimed by drainage, the most important problem at present is the handling of thousands of acres already under cultivation which are not producing as they should because of insufficient drainage. This is one of the great problems Michigan agriculture must face."

The demonstration work in Sanilac County will not only provide information for the farmers of the immediate sections, but will also set standards for similar work all over Michigan.

Ten acre plots, close to main highways, will be drained in the county this summer. The results of the work will then be open for inspection during the next few years, giving definite proof of the real value of farm drainage.

ALMA, SAGINAW AUTO LINE
H. C. Hansen, who has moved to Alma with his family, started an auto line last Monday from Alma to Saginaw, which will be known as Hansen's Auto Line, and the schedule will appear in this paper for some weeks to come. This auto line was welcomed by the traveling public, especially since the two fast P. M. trains have been taken off, and should be well supported.

Mr. Hansen is not a stranger in these parts because he states he worked as a farm hand twenty years ago on a farm located two and one-half miles south of Elwell, then owned by E. R. Lewis. He tells about the many games of croquet Miss Fanny Stitt, principal of the Republic school, used to beat him while visiting the Lewis family, and many of the middle aged people in the vicinity of Elwell will remember him. Later Mr. Hansen moved to Grand Rapids and Muskegon where he married fifteen years ago, and has three children. Two boys are now attending the Lincoln school, the third a girl of nearly five. The family moved here from Flint where they had lived the last seven years. Mr. Hansen has been in the oil business the last few years, both as a promoter and a broker. He was the promoter of the Consumers' Gas and Oil Co. of Wheeler, of which he is president and sales manager and operates the Wheeler Garage owned by the company. This gave him the idea of an auto line between Alma and Saginaw because he owned two large cars, employed expert mechanics and sold gas, oil and tires, so that the operating expense would be small.

Mr. Hansen plans to open one or two more auto lines in different directions out of Alma a little later, and Alma hopes he does and wishes him success.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the friends and neighbors on Park avenue for the floral offerings sent at the time of the death of my brother, Mr. Caldwell.

To Our Patrons

It cannot be otherwise than with a feeling of regret that we announce that our coal business here has been sold, as the Alma manager has been called to the Detroit office, and that we must sever our connection with our loyal friends in this city, whom we desire to thank most heartily for their patronage and friendship during the time that we have been in business in Alma.

Our former patrons may be assured that they will be able to secure the same brands of coal from the new management, The Fuller Coal Company, which will carry on the business that we have conducted here.
